To support phase one of We Got Issues, an initiative that uses multimedia and the performing arts to encourage a national dialogue among young women between the ages of 18-35 about civic participation and the most relevant issues facing young women in America today. We Got Issues will build on the spirit and legacy of the Vagina Monologues by creating a performance based movement that incorporates a national dialogue about the citizenry of young women in America. WGI is gathering the voices of thousands of young women across the country as they share their political views including their voting or non-voting habits. These young feminine voices will come from every region of the country and cover every conceivable demographic. 1+1+1=ONE will send teams of writers to collect "rants," (statements of concern about the state of the nation) and artists will weave the text with movement, music and media. ONE will facilitate dialogues among diverse women; collect information about the civic concerns of the participants; build a database that will support the work; and identify young women who can participate in a leadership training module.
