For general support of the Rockwood Leadership Program, a consulting and training organization specializing in teaching the skills necessary for successful collaboration. The program produces high-level partnerships and results among coalitions, organizations, and individuals who share a broad common values orientation but are divided by political and strategic focus, organizational boundaries, or issues related to diversity. Rockwood's team of seasoned trainers and consultants employ a focused and tested range of services to provide their clients with the energy, vision and skills to come to effective agreement on values, missions and tactics. Support at this time will allow Rockwood to: develop and implement a new trainer recruiting and training program; develop and deliver an array of Rockwood alumni leadership training services, including on-line connections to other leaders; and recast, refine and upgrade their training, program and public materials and website.
